Food and Gifts Needed for Sacramento-Area Families

For families that are barely making ends meet, holidays can be a difficult time. With even less money this year thanks to the economic slow-down, many parents at Sacramento|Yolo Mutual Housing have a hard time creating a festive atmosphere and providing gifts for their children. "This time of year can be a trying time for parents with desperately few resources in our communities," said Rachel Iskow, Executive Director of Mutual Housing.

People can help by dropping off non-perishable food and new, unwrapped children's gifts at the Mutual Housing office, 8001 Fruitridge Road, Sacramento 95820 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, until Thursday, December 22nd. "We will make sure your donation gets to a family right away," said Iskow.

For after-hours or alternative drop-off locations, call Trish Nguyen, Mutual Housing community organizer, at 916-595-9431.
